

JOB CORPS NONRESIDENTIAL STUDENTS

Want to train for a career without leaving home? Job Corps can help!

Select Job Corps centers offer nonresidential options, allowing you to live at home while earning your high school diploma or GED and learning your trade.

The following Philadelphia region centers are solely nonresidential, but most centers offer limited openings for nonresidential students:

Philadelphia Job Corps Center – Philadelphia, Pa.
Wilmington Job Corps Center – Wilmington, Del.

Job Corps offers free:

- Academic instruction
- Vocational training
- Meals

Success lasts a lifetime.

Choose from a variety of trades, including:

- Business technologies
- Carpentry
- Culinary arts
- Electrical
- Health occupations

All Job Corps centers offer a personal career development plan to help you on your way to professional success.

While in Job Corps, you can take part in fun activities like:

- Basketball
- Field trips
- Flag football
- Local cultural activities
- Softball

More than 65,000 students just like you graduate from Job Corps every year, ready to enter the workforce with the skills needed to succeed.

Job Corps is the nation's oldest and largest federally funded education and job training program for disadvantaged youth ages 16 to 24.

For more information about Job Corps, please contact your local Job Corps center or outreach and admissions representative, or call (800) 733-JOBS.
